Dear Secretary Chu-

The Administration is not leading the country in the right direction, and I am hoping that you can do something to put a stop to this mess. As soon as Democratic Rep. Ed Markey heard that there were talks of natural gas exportation, he had to make sure he did what he could to stop it. However, his findings are misguided and need to be ignored.

After surviving cancer and now pushing sixty, my husband is facing the real concern of losing his job. We have been through a great many trials during our marriage, but this is by far the scariest. Finding new employment at our age is no easy task, and my job would not cover all of our bills. We would be devastated if we lost our home. America needs security and we need it now.

There has been a lot of damage done already, and we have to be careful about what actions we take if we are going to repair it. Exporting excess liquefied natural gas is a great way to get the ball rolling as long as the income we acquire is handled wisely. Support hard-working Americans by authorizing natural gas exports.

Thank you for your help,

Deborah Klaumann
